AMONG THE FARMERS.

"SPEED THE FLOW."

Winter.

Snow is my latest, shivering blight
Blowing where it will, and I am glad Breaking trees all rigid and gaunt
Hunting for shelter, old and new trees.

Footsteps buried to stall and haunt
A horse, a rider, so bright and gay!
Unrighteous we stand, and the world of your world
Unrighteous and loose and the birds that are.

When blizzards are loose and the tempests are Unhurried we wait till your furies are spent.

Wide is the world of the drifting snow
With over the wastes the white fits go
To the north, to the south, to the east, to the west.
Out to the world we never shall know.

Frog, insect, and snake I eat, he light
With a bright wing in pocketed deeps.
But are you here, oh, so bright and gay?
The year is ours while the "heat-world sleeps."

Our blizzards are fierce and the trees are snowed
With grasses frayed and the snow is raw.
Fence drifts clean and the sleds go sail.
Stumps white turban and deep creeks, ice.

Crunch and crunch through the white snapping crust.

South is the world of the drifting snow
With bright wing in summer's dead stalk
The tracks ways are the way we walk.
Walk out and out with the whirling snow
Out and out with the whirling snow
Where shots of the years of the hills below
Shred thru' the hills to caverns below.

The Hampshire hog is active and bold and hardy and the weather with it is not commendable to them or to man. They are not to be seen in winter when grass is summer and in experience seems to take its worst form on low, wet pastures. So "catching" is it that when one or two cows are noticed in the field the others are soon following the balance of the herd, including the young stock, may become affected in two or three days. Instant isolation of the animals first attacked is therefore of great importance and a master should move on high, dry pasture.

Milk is indispensable in the diet of children, because its solids are in such form that they can easily be utilized by the body, and because it is one of the

In general conformation it is a hog that is short, stout and too heavily shouldered for the market, but it is a good hog.

It has made a very satisfactory reputation for itself and the meat of Hampshire hogs is considered very superior, having plenty of lean in proportion to fat. It is known for this breed of hogs and of late it is being used to considerable extent in the South.

County Finances.

At the close of the year the County Commissioners made the usual examination of the accounts of the County Treasurer. The expenditures of the county have been considerably more than normal during the past year. Besides paying and retiring the ten thousand dollars loaned by the State to the building of the Fryeburg Registry building, there were eighty-five hundred dollars expended as the county's proportion of the purchase and fitting of the toll bridge between Dixfield and Newry, more than one thousand dollars expended for permanent bridge construction in the towns of Brownfield, Porter, Hiram, Stowman, Waterford and Norway. The costs of Superintendents' fees for the year have been $12,124.50, as against $8,917.15 for the previous year; the increase being caused partly by the increased number of inmates and partly by the increased pay of inmates and officers. The expenses of special officers for guard duty on account of the labor troubles in Rumford have been the largest item of expense, which, with the cost of the Town of Rumford has been $12,124.50 as against $14,408.25 and is expected to assist further in the payment of this expense.

COUNTY TREASURER George M. Atwood states that not much relief in the way of decreased expense is now in sight for the coming year, as the Maine Highway Commission has already issued a warrant for the office of treasurer payment of about seventeen thousand dollars as Oxford County's proportion of the cost of construction of the new Gilman Bridge.

The receipts and expenditures of the County Treasurer's office for the year 1921 are as follows:

Here and There.

"Gold" Gold.
Heavy to get and light to hold."

But the Germans say it is going to be lighter to get, but are silent on its hold. They say one of their men has made synthetic gold, and when they get the process going won't need any old moratorium but can pay its reparations with it. It is said it is true it seems the goal of the old alchemists has been reached. Alchemists, however, have been considered as impossible rainbow chasers and so off color. Even the Germans are not willing to class themselves with them. Those "transmute" metals; they say these "synthetic gold." Scientists, who have denounced alchemists, are somewhat reticent, but the German scientist Dr. Horace G. Bayard, of the chemical department of the Cooper Union, says "It would be a brave or ignorant scientist who would pronounce the synthesis of gold impossible." The Dicksons are going to happen to finance him if Germans should use synthetic gold to pay their debts? Financials right here in the United States say we have too much gold, and that it is a hard thing for most of us, who don't care to go to war, to hide the gold he may possess, but if one does not want "too much hog in the dollar," why, synthetic gold must suit him.

The wizard Henry Ford, is going to make newer, better and cheaper flivvers, and is not going to be in Lizzie either, but Lizzie is going to have new print dress on. It is said that Ford, working over something in his experimental establishment that looks like a "put" is a combination of formidable-looking ginseng root and when he gets it mixed up to put it in the oven to bake and when it comes out it is going to be a real wonder, stronger, cheaper and lighter than any other.

It was gone by most boys had to be contented with a simple one, or to get along with that, with a boy who when a "really truly" watch could be had for a dollar, subterfuges lost their charm and he would do chores or any old thing to get it. The parents found it a pretty good thing, but the time that once was spent in mischief could now be put in winding the Waterbury. The Ingolssors certainly were pioiers in the field of cheap time-pieces, and good ones too for the price.

For County Commissioner.

I wish to thank the citizens of Oxford County that I shall be a candidate for the offices of County Commissioner, and would like the support of all who wish an efficient commissioner.

The Dividend Pays the Bills

THE 61st DIVIDEND of Central Maine Power Company 7 per cent. Preferred Stock went out on the first day of the new year to the Company's more than 7,000 stockholders.

For more than 18 years these dividends have been going out with unfailing regularity—at first semi-annually, now and for many years quarterly.

The present sound, financial position of the Company gives all assurance that these dividends should continue with the same regularity as far into the future as the mind of man can be projected.

Many stockholders have bought just enough stock to pay their light bills. Others have bought vastly more, enough to pay all their bills. For small investors or for large, for customers and for every other resident of the State of Maine, no security compares, we feel sure, in its multitude of advantages with Central Maine Power Company 7 per cent. Preferred Stock.

The price is $107.50 a share,
the yield is 6 1-2 per cent. net
